I wanted to share with you something else because I don't want to hold anything back. It's going to be in my name as well. It's not going to be in the church's name. So if someone hears about something like that. I didn't want someone to think, well what are you doing to do, take off to Europe. And you're going to be over there. Whatever [inaudible] 200,000 or whatever. No. We don't want the church's name involved. It's going to be a personal account because Europe is a little, when it comes to religious groups and so forth, they're not real keen on some of those things. So when we do transfer the monies we're trying to think of different ways to put it in there. We'll probably put a lot of it in Euros, some in Swiss francs, nothing in US dollars. And that's not to scare the church, the people ought to be doing the same thing because it's going to come down just strictly I believe deeply whether it be for us or someone else that's going to be able to use that money later on.
